food waste

Food waste is a big problem. One-third of all food produced ends up in landfill. Trucks transporting food waste emit carbon dioxide. Landfill emits methane and toxic leachate to our waterways. We can change that. Our food waste digesters enable you to dispose of food waste on site. At your restaurant, your hotel, your food manufacturing business. No more landfill. No more trucks. Check out our waste page to health

Our health is facing unprecedented challenges. The COVID-19 pandemic has shown us just how vulnerable we are. Knowing that workplaces and public spaces are free from infection will become the new standard. Our Surfacide UV-C disinfection systems kill bacteria, viruses, spores, influenza, golden staph and a multitude of other drug resistant organisms. No chemicals. Earth friendly. See what will become for disinfection on back. Who would? We were seeking technology that could assist us in the servicing of over 100 cafés, restaurants and bars that could be sustainable, cost effective, low maintenance and high performance.

I was and still am surprised with the machine processing capabilities, operating silently and without odour this machine has become a vital and trusted component of our busy facility."

food waste management solutions

Australia

Is there a better way to manage food waste?

There sure is.

Food waste disposal is a big problem. One-third of all food produced ends up in landfill. Trucks transporting food waste emit carbon dioxide. Landfill emits methane and toxic leachate to our waterways. This shows the size of the problem. And it's increasing. We can change that. Our food waste digesters enable you to dispose of food waste on site.

At your restaurant, your hotel, your food manufacturing business. No more landfill. No more trucks. No more odours and pests. Better for your staff and your customers.

Think of it as a mechanical stomach. Just like humans chew food and the stomach churns food through a process of digestion. Our machines break food into small particles, then further break it down through a process of aerobic digestion.

Australia

Is food waste digestion on site better than sending food waste to landfill?

Much better. Much simpler.

By disposing of food waste on site, it delivers environmental, financial and social benefits – your customers will see you as a smart, sustainably focussed business.
