Hi Adam,

I've been advised to let you know- and I do understand from our last correspondence that you do not provide protective services- but nonetheless, I've been advised to let you know that on Monday someone pushed our back gate open and possibly succeeded in getting into my backyard where my children were playing.

We were so upset and concerned for our safety and privacy, that we paid a huge amount of money to take them to stay with me in the city.

I've been home since Thursday night but feeling constantly concerned about our safety at home.

Since then I've had multiple reporters come and knock on my door and even try to speak to my 10 year old son through the door.

I am predicting that this is not your business, but I've just been advised to let you know.

Kind Regards,

Hi Anne,

Sorry to bother you, I've written twice to security but had no reply.

I need to speak to someone about some threats. Is there a specific person that I can reach out to rather than a general email?
