Sad but also telling that, just a few days after the fourth anniversary of the #ChristchurchMassacre, a parade of his local fans are given police protection b/c Posie Parker is desperate for attn. #STRAYA

when in Australia, Tarrant was active in a private Lads Society Facebook group, where, as noted in the Royal Commission of Inquiry into the shooting, he frequently made Islamophobic comments, some of which 'were premised on the view that Muslims pose an existential threat to Western societies, which perhaps can only be successfully resisted by violence.'<sup>16</sup> Sewell had attempted to recruit the future gunman in 2017, inviting him to join a project to help create a 'parallel society' of only white people, but Tarrant had declined because he was about to move to New Zealand. When the shooting happened, Sewell noted on his Facebook page that the shooter 'had been in the scene for a while.'<sup>17</sup>

The shooter had been making comments on Australian far-right social media for years prior to the Christchurch attack. When Sewell and United Patriots Front leader Blair Cottrell livestreamed their celebrations on the night of the 2016 US election, after it became apparent that Trump would be victorious, Tarrant's comment on the video was that this is 'simply one of the most important events in modern history', alists and Marxists on suicide watch triumphant – looking forward to E ig soon'.<sup>16</sup> On an earlier video, where television, Tarrant commented: 'N e a true leader of the nationalist especially not so early in the game. News wrote that Cottrell emerge and since then 'has become the h alia's alt right' and for many, 'the te resistance" in Australia.'
