PRIME MINISTER SCOTT MORRISON

Scott Morrison refuses to deny the alleged parliament house rapist is Bruce Lehrmann who previously worked for Senator Linda Reynolds

BY SHANE DOWLING ON FEBRUARY 19, 2021 • ( 16 COMMENTS )

Scott Morrison and his government are refusing to deny that Bruce Lehrmann is the former staffer of Senator Linda Reynolds who allegedly raped Brittany Higgins in March 2019 at parliament house in Senator Reynolds' office. Bruce Lehrmann was first named on Wednesday (19/2/21) on the website True Crimes News Weekly. In any cover-up, keeping key players away from media scrutiny is a standard tactic so the lies are not contradicted by each other and Bruce Lehrmann the key player we haven't heard from.

On Thursday (18/2/21) Scott Morrison avoided the media and on Friday (19/2/21) Senator Reynolds was in hiding and other key people have been kept away from the media or issued press releases (<https://www.news.com.au/national/politics/brittany-higgins-speaker-and-senate-president-told-of-incident-two-years-ago/news-story/399f18f288821df2c2b1a868bf7d99c5>) that would have been vetted by the government's crisis management team that Scott Morrison would have set up to try and contain the crisis. Scott Morrison and the government are in a lot of trouble for their role in the 2-year cover-up and if Mr Lehrmann is exposed to media questions his answers could do great damage to the government's continued cover-up strategy.

I emailed the Department of Prime Minister and Cabinet as per the below email on Wednesday night and they did not respond although they received the email as the below read receipt shows. I phoned the Department of Prime Minister and Cabinet today (Friday – 19/2/21) and they refused to confirm or deny that Bruce Lehrmann is the alleged rapist and they refused to confirm or deny that they even knew who he was. So, I asked the person if they knew who Brittany Higgins was and they replied “of course”. I then phoned the PM's office and left a message on a media manager's voicemail but they also didn't return the call.

Dear Sir/Madam

Can you confirm that Bruce Lehrmann is the former staffer in Senator Linda Reynolds' office who is accused of raping Brittany Higgins? Please respond ASAP so I can publish.

Regards

Shane Dowling

I also emailed Senator Linda Reynolds office on Wednesday night and asked the same question as I asked the PM and I never received a response and I phoned her office today (19/2/21) and left a message for her media manager and I have not had a reply.

Bruce Lehrmann

Bruce Lehrmann also worked for Senator George Brandis who thanked him in his 2018 speech to parliament which shows-up in Hansard which is the transcript for parliament. (Click here to see in Hansard)

(<https://parlinfo.aph.gov.au/parlInfo/search/display/display.w3p;query=Id:%22media/summary/summary.w3p;query=AuthorId%3A008W7%7CReporterId%3A008W7%7CSpeakerId%3A008W7>)

The Bruce Lehrmann article is still published on True Crimes News Weekly (<https://truecrimenewsweekly.com/>) and I spoke to the publisher who says he has several sources who have confirmed that it is Bruce Lehrmann. Bruce Lehrmann has deleted his Twitter account and Instagram account and disappeared. Add that to the fact that Bruce Lehrmann is a former government employee, as the Senator George Brandis speech recorded on Hansard shows, then I believe Scott Morrison and Linda Reynolds have an obligation to at least deny that it is him if he has been wrongly named in the media. But they haven't done that, they have stayed silent which means it either is Bruce Lehrmann, or they have thrown him under a bus which I doubt very much they would do in the current circumstances because it would be found out soon anyhow.

True Crimes News Weekly published an article naming Bruce Lehrmann on Wednesday (Click here to read (<https://truecrimenewsweekly.com/unmasked-for-the-first-time-after-two-years-meet-the-liberal-party-toff-at-centre-of-alleged-parliament-house-security-breach-which-left-young-woman-traumatised/>)) and by Wednesday afternoon media were reporting that: "The former Liberal staffer at the centre of the Brittany Higgins rape claim has reportedly checked himself into hospital in Sydney. A source told the newspaper that the man was concerned and had sought psychiatric care, but had not self-harmed." (Click here to read more (<https://www.news.com.au/national/politics/brittany-higgins-case-former-liberal-staffer-enters-psych-ward/news-story/942fdd60653548c5954852c887f8556d>))

There has been no confirmation that he has checked into the hospital, but it seems very coincidental that it's reported he is in hospital a few hours after he was named by True Crimes News Weekly as a hospital is one of the few places that anyone can hide from the media. And it is consistent with him deleting his social media accounts which I suspect was also an attempt to hide from the media.

Brittany Higgins is a force to be reckoned with

Brittany Higgins has played her cards brilliantly by doing interviews that were published and broadcast Monday (15/2/21), then she waited for the government to tell lies in the cover-up and then she leaked an old voicemail and old texts from 2019 which exposed the government's lies.

Below is the voicemail from Senator Michaela Cash who obviously knows more than she is saying.

(Click here for the full News.com article about the voicemail (<https://www.news.com.au/national/politics/sleep-tight-minister-michaelia-cashes-voicemail-message-to-brittany-higgins/news-story/08b19a13e2f35923148c960233260aad>))

And text messages were leaked between Brittany Higgins another Liberal staffer as per below talking about raising the matter with Scott Morrison's Chief of Staff (COS). (Click here to read more

Scott Morrison and his crime gang have been rattled and they have been ducking and weaving on the issue trying to continue with the cover-up and yesterday Scott Morrison's office were exposed backgrounding journalists and telling them lies about Brittany Higgins' partner who previously worked in the PM's office telling the journalists he had some sort of vendetta against the government. It proves the government is still attempting to cover-up the alleged rape and also proves that Scott Morrison is overseeing the cover-up because his office staff would not be telling lies to journalists without Morrison's approval. (Click here to read more (<https://www.theguardian.com/australia-news/2021/feb/18/its-gross-brittany-higgins-says-if-scott-morrison-office-is-briefing-against-her-it-must-stop>))

Brittany Higgins issued a press statement today saying she would be making a formal complaint to the Australian Federal Police (AFP). From what I read the complaint has two parts. One complaint is about the alleged rape and the second complaint is about the people covering it up.

The rape allegation is a crime that will never be fully investigated if the bigger crime of the cover-up is not addressed first as the federal government is still trying to cover it up. And the only way to address a cover-up is to make as many details and facts as possible made public and one of the key facts here is who is the alleged rapist. Because once his identity is known publicly then a lot more facts will come out. Not just what Bruce Lehrmann has to say but was he supported by the Liberal Party after he was sacked as some have suggested etc.

I know cover-ups and what is needed for them to be exposed from investigating government crime, corruption and cover-ups for over ten years and I raise this because some people attacked the publisher of True Crimes News Weekly for naming Bruce Lehrmann. Their arguments for not naming him were stupid beyond belief and I'm not going to address them all here, but one argument is that it should have been left to Brittany Higgins to name him. Well, she might not have named him but she has stated in the national media where he worked, when, the fact that he was sacked at the time and he was a Liberal Party staffer and she accused him of rape.

By the end of Monday night, 1000's if not 10,000's of people in the Liberal Party would have known who he was and everyone in parliament in Canberra would have known who he was as well. The reason someone in Brittany's position is likely to have not named him is because of the threat of defamation proceedings which is a common threat for criminals to use in situations like this. Brittany would have been aware that Bruce Lehrmann's name would become public as soon as she did the interview. whether she named him or not.

Another person said he should not be named because if it goes to court his barrister might argue he won't get a fair trial. Some people on social media watch too much TV. People are named and accused of crimes in the media every day and some are very high profile so their barristers could also argue they will not get a fair trial, but it is an argument that fails. If that argument worked then the numerous high-profile people charged over the last few years with various crimes would never have faced court.

The AFP has also covered-up rape at the AFP

One of the truly sad things about this matter is only a couple of years ago the AFP were exposed for covering up the rape of AFP staff so will they cover-up Brittany Higgins' complaint?

I published an article in 2016 titled "AFP staff who were raped by Australian Federal Police asked to make a formal complaint" which started off:

Commissioner Andrew Colvin has asked for Australian Federal Police (AFP) who were raped or sexually assaulted by other Federal Police to come forward and make a formal complaint after a report says that 2% of AFP employees have been raped and/or sexually assaulted.

Over the past six months former Sex Discrimination Commissioner, Elizabeth Broderick, has interviewed/consulted with over 1000 AFP employees and the results are horrific. On Monday the Broderick Report was released by the AFP. (Click here to read the report \(https://kangarocourtofaustralia.com/wp-content/uploads/2016/08/afp-broderick-report-2016.pdf\)) It found in the last five years 66% of women and 62% of men have been bullied and 20% have been sexually harassed which is almost double the national average. Worst of all is that 2% have been raped by another AFP employee, sexually assaulted or had another AFP employee attempt raping/sexually assaulting them. (Click here to read more \(https://kangarocourtofaustralia.com/2016/08/25/afp-staff-who-were-raped-by-australian-federal-police-asked-to-make-a-formal-complaint/\))

Brittany Higgins has made the right decision to make a formal complaint to the AFP because even if it is not successful, I have no doubt it will help drive change in a big way by shining a powerful light on the issue. But we should not sit back and expect the AFP to do the right thing and investigate fully and we should play our part in keeping the pressure up to support Brittany Higgins as she is fighting the most powerful and most corrupt organisation in the country which is the federal government.

There would now be dozens of people in the government with a lot of knowledge of 2-year-old cover-up and it would only take one or two of them to speak and they could possibly take down Morrison and/or the government given the coalition only have a 2-seat majority. It's dangerous times ahead for the government and it's time for some of them to show the courage Brittany Higgins has and speak out.

I would not & do not trust SCOMO the despicable Pm, or The hate filled Ms Michaela Cash with anything, especially the air I breathe. And they will do nothing to help Brittany Higgins in any way They are Liberals and that says it all. I believe our Pm knew all about this. Reply

Don't know which is worse, being sexually or judicially raped. Either way,, you come out of the experience broken or extremely angry. As long as unaffected Australians continue in their apathy towards justice, nothing will change. Reply

Strongly Agree Mr Cameron, the Australian publics seem so weary and flat from just constantly having to look for Ground truth from the current government approaches. No govt is perfect but this lot is just mentally torturing the AU publics with CT Lobbyist experiments to influence voter behaviour intent and that appears to be including an insidious saturation of hollowmen jargon and pushing citizen contempt to the absolute limits to see where the breaking point is. All political sectors and partisanships need to rise out of division and get some moral compass back in our halls of influence and power. Unfortunately the PM is laser focused on his 'silent australians' target markets who fall for threats of higher taxes, and lack of social welfare in their aged years – truly grubby tactics from a man whose career was built on the back of corruption, deceit and prejudice against Towke from the start of his preselection process. Reply

Agree Mate Australia needs to wake up

Thanks. This investigation is very, very interesting. It's opened my eyes to issues I wasn't aware of in our culture for one. The Brittany Higgins incident hopefully brings down the government, we can only hope. Brittany is a very brave woman and I admire her for that. She is also very intelligent and this will hold her in good stead. Who knows what other evidence she has kept. We don't know and more importantly I don't think the Government knows so they'll have to watch their lies. Reply

So they can protect the rapist financial details, fling intimidation at the victim and her partner they are doing their best? Reply

Disgusting individuals from ScoMo at the top of the ladder and all politicians on the way down profess to be Christians in Australia which is based on the Christian religion. Reply
No matter if people believe or not in a religion, the Ten Commandments are a set of Ten Laws Of Living A Decent & Honourable Life.
I keep reading suggestions that decent Australians should be doing something to rid politics of the immoral, dishonest, corrupt and deceitful politicians and judges in our midst, but how can that happen when those with the power to rid Australia of those individuals themselves are immoral, dishonest, corrupt and deceitful.

Mr Magoo Morrison would be the perfect choice to play Schultz if there's a remake of Hogan's Morrison wouldn't need to learn the lines -"I see nothing, I know nothing" as he's already said them hundreds of times. Reply

I don't know what all the fuss is about here. I personally regard Scotty from marketing as being honest when he recently stated that, "I don't hold the hose, mate". Off course he doesn't! He IS the bloody hose. And he uses his nozzle to spray it everywhere, every day! Reply

Morrison, Reynolds, Colvin and Cash have deliberately misled parliament and are now getting stories straight. They make a mockery of parliamentary privilege which was never meant to cover this type of corrupt politics. The triumvirate will not be punished now so let us all remember what they have done come election time. They are all mediocre politicians and will not be missed. Reply

Like it or not we were not created equal. We were created in God's image and given the urges to procreate. Religious and Political regulators seek to modify those urges in pursuit of their own ends. We have all grown up knowing some great swordsmen and compliant women. Lehrmann should harden up and explain his actions. He must have brought joy to some of the ladies he pursued. Where are they hiding? Let some of them come forward in his support and share the bravery accolades of the few unhappy souls. Reply
