

B clearly very nervous. I've told her she can tap out at any point today, take a break, whatever. D told me that when it comes to recounting details of the assault B would like D to step out of the room.

I'd suggest we go through anything like those details after lunch. She will hopefully feel like we've got her back after a couple of hours discussion by then.

9:34 am