Just sent you another email. I don't expect anyone to truly understand this as Anne Twomey said it's one of the most complex area of law in the country.

But, it's the APH outlining who is in charge of security.

1) WITHIN the parliamentary precinct which is a designated area it's the "AED

Manager, Parliament House". There is a memorandum of understanding between the AFP and the Department of Parliamentary Services that this mini version of the AFP are working for the department and doing the security within the precinct.

2) the actual AFP do the external stuff.
